Salt Lake County Animal Services Humane Education Department

Cats make pollution in the most irritating doghouse. It's a natural control system. It's easy to understand the commonality. If you think your dog has a problem with barking, here are some tips and information that might help you solve your problem.

First, recognize that barking is a very natural and natural instinct of dogs. Barking is a form of communication with other canines and with their pack. It's not desirable to try to stop all barking. Just the barking that annoys or causes problems. This usually means barking continuously when left alone in the house or outside or barking without stopping for more than a reasonable period of time.

Dogs that bark continuously are ones that have a behavior problem. These behavior problems are due to being left alone for long periods of time, boredom, frustration or just being frightened.

Dogs who bark because they are bored, frustrated or just being frightened should be given a good workout. If you get up and let your dog out to walk, the dog will have a good workout. Start by giving your dog for 10 to 15 minutes. If you can't get up, try to get up for 10 to 15 minutes. If you can't get up, try to get up for 10 to 15 minutes.
