UTAH MARQUEE

MUSIC

Tickets for Paula Abdul's "Under My Spell" tour, coming to the Delta Center Dec. 7, go on sale Saturday at 7 a.m. at all Salt Lake City outlets and the Delta Center box office.

More than 1,700 children from all over Utah will take part in Celebration II, a daylong event spotlighting the Suzuki method of musical instruction. Saturday at Symphony Hall, 121 W. South Temple.

The piano performances will be at 9:15 and 11:30 a.m. Seven hundred violins will play together at 2 p.m., with guitar and harp ensembles at 2:30 and 5 p.m. All six of these sessions are free to the public.

Tickets to a 7 p.m. Grand Finale concert — featuring piano, violin, viola, flute, harp and guitar performances — are $5 at the door.

The method developed by Japanese violinist Shizuko Nakajima stresses listening, imitation and group cooperation. Students begin at preschool age.

The Utah Chamber Artists will give their first concert Monday at 8 p.m. in the First Congregational Church, 210 S. Pothill.

On the program are Dvorak's Serenade for Strings and choral works of Bruckner, Holst, Robert Cundick and Halsey. Mr. Cundick, recently retired as Salt Lake Tabernacle organist, will accompany the choir in his work.

The 30-member choir and 40-piece chamber orchestra will be conducted by founder Harlow Bradford, a native Utahian who recently returned from studies in southern California.

Tickets are $8 single or $15 a pair.

Classical guitarist Christopher Parkening will perform at the Grand Auditorium of Weber State University's Browning Center, Ogden, Monday at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $5 and $15.

Mr. Parkening has performed with many of the world's leading orchestras including the Utah Symphony, with which he will solo Jan. 3, in collaboration with such artists as Placido Domingo and Julee Adams, and has been nominated for two Grammy Awards.

Spotlight on . . . clubs

Willen Breker Kolkettief

Willen Breker Kolkettief has an unquenchable desire to play music — whatever that might be at the moment.

"It's human-being music, made by human beings for human beings," said Mr. Breker, a Dutchman and leader of the 10-piece performing group. "It's a very open kind of music. We let everyone do what they feel like doing."

The mountains pulling off the impressive mix of modern and traditional jazz, horns of Latin dance music, and pop songs are thoroughly taught. They play 100 covers a year to adoring crowds in the U.S. and Europe.

The band's one Salt Lake City performance will be Thursday at 9 p.m. at the Zephyr Club, 301 S. West Temple.

It was while rehearsing for that first gig that the players came up with the group's name. "We were putting all our time and energy into getting the band together that we hardly had time for a social life," drummer Rick "Seneca" Seneca recalled. "It was like, 'This band is going to turn us into bachelors, so we might as well name ourselves that.'"

The Bachelors are known on drums. Matt Hargreaves on bass, guitarist Alex Jovanides and vocalist Phil Leon.

Original keyboardist Dave Stephenson got married and moved to Texas. However, the group's number hasn't proved too restrictive for the first members as Seneca recently celebrated his first wedding anniversary.

The Bachelors are regulars on the Salt Lake bar and club scene. They bill themselves as classic rockers, but Seneca says the band "opens up the songs to include then and more modern."

The band has recently put together a new show called "The Bachelors Live." La. Muenster and their first attempt at what Seneca terms a "concert song" with a rendition of "Tom Sawyer" of "What Is Up?"

The Bachelors

A lot has changed for the Bachelors in the six years since the group began performing together. They released an album of original songs, "Love in America," their keyboard player moved away and at least one of them isn't a bachelor anymore.

The rock quartet will offer the final two performances of a three-day anniversary celebration Friday and Saturday at the Dead Goat, 165 S. West Temple, where the Bachelors debuted on Halloween night 1985.

It was while rehearsing for that first gig that the players came up with the group's name. "We were putting all our time and energy into getting the band together that we hardly had time for a social life," drummer Rick "Seneca" Seneca recalled.
