

Mary Lou Romney (1929 - )

This sensitive painter of powerful flower, landscape, and portrait depictions was born in Saint Anthony, Idaho. One of Salt Lake City's most effective and active art community organizers and participants, Mary Lou has also been the creator of some of Utah's most striking exhibition entries in recent years. After completing a Master of Fine Arts degree, Mary Lou established her own studio in Salt Lake City. Also a fine teacher, she uses her knowledge of both the Western and Eastern traditions to further her work in the classroom and studio.

-- Robert Olpin

In August of 1988, Mary Lou was chosen as one of six emerging artists in the nation, being featured in American Artist magazine.
